UAW Reduces Demands On General Motors

Union Withdraws
Request To Share
In Firm's Profits

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union Sunday withdrew its profit-sharing demand on General Motors Corp., and proposed that extra benefits sought for UAW members be paid from corporation funds "in the customary manner."

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said the union withdrew Saturday's profit-sharing demand because GM had rejected it.

At resumption of negotiations Sunday, Reuther said the union is now insisting that GM match all but the profit-sharing benefits provided in the American Motors Corp. settlement.

Will Settle For Less

The UAW appeared to be willing to agree to settle for less with GM than with AMC to the extent that the extra benefits would be less than a specific 15 per cent of the corporation's profits.

Reuther said, "We make this proposal even though many of its provisions do not, in the judgment of the union, reflect the full equity to which General Motors' workers are entitled" because of the favored position of GM.

Reuther said the union was making the proposal "in the hope that an equitable agreement is still possible despite the lateness of the hour."

The UAW is set to strike GM at 10 a.m. EST next Wednesday in event a settlement is not reached.

Offering "Safety Valve"

At the same time Reuther said the UAW is offering GM what he called "the safety valve" in the AMC settlement. He said this "will insure the corporation against the chance that payment to its employees will be so great as to affect its profit position, reduce stock holder equity or require General Motors to increase prices."

Under the AMC settlement, if profits are not sufficient to finance extra pension and hospital-medical care benefits, the extra cost would be diverted from the annual wage increases of UAW members.

The annual wage improvement agreement with AMC keeps in effect the present two-and-a-half per cent pay increase based upon productivity. This averages seven cents an hour in the auto industry.

The union told GM Saturday it

Third Train Derails at East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — Twelve of the 121 cars of an east-bound Pennsylvania Railroad freight train derailed here late last night. This was the third derailment within the city limits here in the last two weeks.

No one was injured and damage was confined to railroad property. The eastbound tracks are out of service and traffic going both east and west is being routed over the westbound tracks.

The State Highway Patrol said the cars apparently left the track after hitting a broken rail.

Two weeks ago today 19 freight cars derailed here closing the Pennsy's main line for four days. The line was open for only two days when 38 cars and five diesel units of a 148-car train left the rails Aug. 26 causing damage of nearly $1 million.

U.S., Britain Urge Russia Sign Atmospheric Nuclear Test Ban

Belgrade Speakers Rip Red A-Test

Tito Asks World Confabs On Disarmament, Economic Aid

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia called Sunday for two world conferences—one to seek a new approach to disarmament, the other to make all the world a single economic market.

The Yugoslav leader placed his proposals before the conference here of leaders from 24 non-aligned nations, meeting in the domed legislative hall of the Yugoslav Parliament.

President Makarios of Cyprus then suggested to the conference that the Germans be allowed to decide through a U.N. plebiscite "their form and system of government and whether Germany should be united or remain divided." The idea of free elections to settle German's future is one the West has proposed and favors and which the Communists have persistently rejected.

Archbishop Makarios, the only churchman at this conference, went to the rostrum immediately after Tito, the only avowed Communist here.

All of Sunday's first three speakers expressed shock at the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing.

Tito said a general world disarmament conference, including the great nuclear powers and countries "not involved in the arms race nor directly engaged in disarmament negotiations," would provide a new approach to the problem.

He said the economic conference could take up "all the most important economic questions." He proposed it after a sharp attack on the European Common Market, the East European Trading Zone and similar economic blocs.

Countries outside these organizations, particularly the non-aligned, find themselves subjected to discrimination, Tito charged. He said universal economic cooperation should replace the regional blocs.

Tito said he was surprised the Soviets decided to resume nuclear testing "on the day of this conference of peace." Makarios said he was "shocked" by the decision.

But Tito and the bearded Cypriot archbishop cited French atomic tests and said there is an urgent need for a ban on nuclear weapons experiments.

While Tito said a general world disarmament conference should be considered, Makarios said the main military powers should resume direct talks under U.N. auspices.

Tito implied support for the Soviet disarmament position, saying the question is complicated by "those who continue to make a fetish out of control." Strict controls are demanded by the United States and Britain.

The Yugoslav president proposed a step-by-step control, suggesting that all countries agree to reduce military expenditures and be obliged to use part of the savings to aid underdeveloped countries. If this cannot be done, he said, there might be a decision to freeze military budgets at their Jan. 1, 1960 level.

On Berlin, Tito took a Communist line, denouncing West Germany as being "fraught with remnants of fascists and revanchist conceptions."

Makarios, impressive in his orthodox archbishop's robes (he came to the rostrum directly from church services), took another line. He said the people of Berlin "cannot be kept in a kind of concentration camp" and must be "allowed freedom of movement between West and East Berlin."

Both speakers appeared for negotiations in the present crisis. Makarios concluded with an appeal that the Belgrade conference call for an early meeting of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev.

Sirimavo Bandaranaike, prime minister of Ceylon and the only woman here, followed Makarios to the rostrum and promptly denounced Soviet nuclear testing. She said it was unfortunate that nuclear arms talks came to a standstill and added: "What is even worse, nuclear tests have been resumed by the Soviet Union."

THIS WAS THE SCENE on N. Lincoln Ave. alongside Hope Cemetery as crews cleaned up after a sudden windstorm Saturday night which felled trees and tree limbs in scattered parts of the city.

City Cleans Up From Saturday Windstorm

Electric and telephone service was interrupted in scattered sections of the city Saturday night at 6 when a sudden thunderstorm knocked down a number of trees and tree limbs.

The Ohio Edison Co. crews did not restore electricity to the Albany Rd. and Pidgeon Rd. area for four hours after lines were broken.

Ohio Bell Telephone Co. linemen still were at work Sunday repairing broken lines.

Visibility at the height of the storm was so poor that motorists on the highways stopped their cars at the side of the road.

A fallen tree near Hope Cemetery completely blocked N. Lincoln Ave. and brought down three utility poles.

Salem Auxiliary police were on duty to detour traffic and also to direct one-way traffic on N. Union Ave. where large tree limbs fell at several locations and also on Highland Ave. and S. Lincoln Ave. where other limbs fell.

Telephone and power lines were affected.

Power also had to be shut off on S. Lincoln below Aetna due to fallen wires.

City service department workers performed emergency work Saturday night but spent busy hours Sunday cleaning up silt and other debris caused by the storm. Mayor Dean Cranmer donned overalls and helped with the cleanup.

The city's mechanical street sweeper was kept going most of the day Sunday.

Mansfield said in an interview he thinks the House committee-approved cuts are far too deep. The President originally requested $4,762,500,000.

"This is the third reduction Congress is making in President Kennedy's original requests," he said. "Two previous cuts were made in the authorization before it finally was compromised and now a reduction in the actual funds is proposed."

"Either the foreign aid program is good and should be supported fully or it is bad and should not be supported at all."

Mansfield conceded that if the House approves the reductions and the Senate restores the full amount, compromises between the two bodies will hold the total lower than Congress previously authorized.

It seemed likely that a substantial part of the $400 million the committee cut from military

Thousands Flee California Fires

Towns Declared
Disaster Areas

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Flaming terror struck California's historic mother lode country Sunday and Amador County's old mining towns were declared a disaster area.

Thousands fled before the crackling flames of more than 100 fires from the extreme northern portion of the big state to the central Sierra, some 500 miles to the south.

Highway patrolmen, already burdened with the enormous Labor Day weekend traffic of the nation's heaviest driving state, were ordered on 12-hour emergency shifts in the fire-stricken areas and other police were sent into the burning areas from neighboring counties to help reroute traffic.

A 25,000-acre fire in Amador County forced residents to flee Fiddletown, Drytown, Amador City, Sutter Creek and Plymouth. Those towns all were closed.

At historic Volcano, frightened residents reported the town filled with smoke and fire blazing in from the north.

"We are right in the path," one man said over the telephone, "but we can't see much. It's terrifying."

Five huge bombers poured borate solutions on the flames in the area but with winds swirling again, the fires appeared to be gaining in intensity.

Officials said more than 40 Amador County homes were destroyed. The officials said they were too busy to check on the number of reported injured.

The only deaths reported were two motorists killed in collisions with fire trucks.

In Sacramento, Sterling Damgaard, State Division of Forestry dispatcher, said, "Yesterday and today have been the worst two days of the season. This year, to date, has been the most destructive in fires since 1956."

It also has been one of California's driest years.

In Sutter Creek, hundreds hauled their belonging to the lawn of the town's high school.

JFK, Macmillan Set Sept. 9 as Pact Deadline

Allies Would Rely
On Existing Methods
Of Detecting Blasts

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—The United States and Great Britain called on Russia Sunday to agree to a three-power ban on atmospheric nuclear tests that could produce deadly fallout.

President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, in a statement issued by the Cape Cod White House, also proposed that the three nations record such an agreement at Geneva not later than Sept. 9. It would then be reported to the United Nations.

Both the Western powers declared they are prepared to rely upon existing methods of detection "and are not suggesting additional controls." In addition, the statement said the United States and Great Britain reaffirm their "serious desire" to conclude a nuclear test ban treaty applicable to all forms of testing.

Their two governments, Kennedy and Macmillan said, "regret that the Soviet government has blocked such agreement."

The joint declaration proposed to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that the United States, Great Britain and Russia "agree, effective immediately, not to conduct nuclear tests which take place in the atmosphere and produce radioactive fallout."

The Soviets' test blast last Friday was detonated over central Asia. It caused immediate concern in Japan, which has been afflicted with fallout from both U.S. and Soviet tests in the past.

The Federation of American Scientists charged the Soviet re-

Two Drivers Are Fined For Intoxication

Two drunken drivers were among six motorists given hearings in Mayor Dean Cranmer's court over the weekend.

Donald E. White, 39, of 620 Euclid St., arrested on S. Lincoln Ave. at 3:15 a.m. today for driving a car while intoxicated, was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

A similar sentence was meted out to Ralph S. Scattergood, 47, of Canfield, who was arrested on N. Lincoln Ave. at 3:35 a.m. today.

Lewis M. Coman, 31, of Berlin Center, arrested by police at 2:30 a.m. today for speeding on N. Ellsworth Ave., was fined $40 and costs.

Donald Lee Zeppernick, 23, of 780 Liberty St., arrested at State and Union Ave. for reckless operation, was fined $15 and costs.

Clifford Wallace, 53, of Alliance, arrested for passing a line of traffic at the W. State St. grade crossing Saturday afternoon, was fined $10 and costs.

Chesley Brinker, 36, of Akron, charged with crashing a red traffic signal at E. Pershing and Lincoln Sunday noon, left a $15 bond.

At another hearing, Chester Nelson, 30, of 1041 S. Morgan Ave. Alliance, was found guilty of an assault and battery charge perpetrated by his wife, Nancy, and was fined $50 and costs and given a suspended 30-day jail sentence. The incident took place in the NB Bar parking lot Aug. 29.

Job Reduced to Figurehead Status

Goulart Will Be Installed
Monday as Brazil's President

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Leftist Vice President Joao Goulart announced Sunday he will come here for installation Monday as president, a job newly whittled down by Congress to figurehead status. He plans to take a morning plane north from Porto Alegre.

Barring a last-minute hitch, this means an end to the threat of civil war that has shaken Brazil since President Janio Quadros resigned Aug. 25 and military chiefs proclaimed their opposition to Goulart's succession, calling him a security risk.

Most of the presidency's powers are to go to a premier, under a constitutional amendment approved Saturday by sweeping majorities of the Chamber of Deputies (235-55) and Senate (47-5). The premier will be chosen by the Congress, in which the Conservative Social Democrats make up the biggest single party.

Gov. Juracy Magalhaes of the oil-rich state of Bahia appeared favored for the job. A commonique issued by 10 other governors called him an outstanding administrator who could run the country with safety and success.

A laborite whose backing includes a vocal Communist minority, Goulart said in a statement issued in Porto Alegre that he harbors no grudges and understands that no government can be installed without the support of all responsible forces in Brazil.

He confirmed readiness to take the oath under the altered circumstances in a telephone call to this hinterland capital.

He notified Sen. Auro Moura Andrade that "my inauguration will take place in Brasilia, in accordance with my request to the president of the Congress, who already has made arrangements for it to be held at 3 p.m. (1 p.m. EST) Sept. 4," Andrade is the president of the Congress.

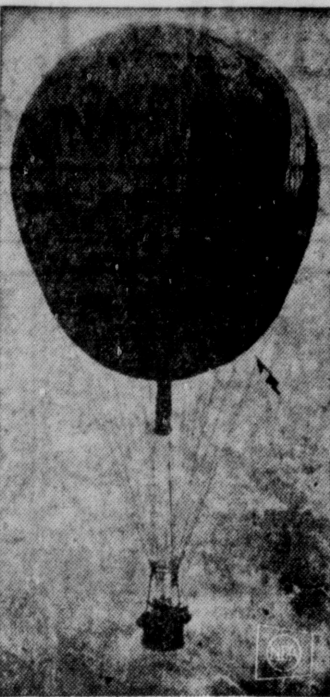

Goulart, 42, wealthy rancher and former cowboy, denied a rumor he had been inaugurated as president in Porto Alegre, capital of the rebellious southern state of Rio Grande do Sul, where Brazil's 3rd Army proclaimed its support of him in defiance of the army, air force and navy chiefs. "The news... is absolutely untrue," Goulart said.

Officials at the Governor's Palace in Porto Alegre took measures which appeared to be preparations for a possible siege.

Financial authorities said Rio Grande do Sul will start issuing its own currency Monday to relieve a critical financial situation which followed the shutdown of all Brazilian banks last Monday. Provisional President Ranieri Mazzilli had announced that the banks, originally set to reopen Monday would remain closed until next Friday. The decision was aimed to prevent crisis-inspired withdrawals from savings accounts.

Sources of the rebellious 3rd Army said its troops have deployed for defense. But there was no fresh sign of military activity at Porto Alegre.

First use of the word "ghetto" to separate Jewish communities of cities seems to have been the name for Jewish sections of Italian cities.

500 Farmers Vote
On ASC Committees

LISBON — Over 500 Columbiana County farmers have voted in the annual community elections conducted by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, according to Clifford Shaw of Lisbon, county ASC chairman.

The election, which is by mail, began Aug. 25 and ends Tuesday. No ballots postmarked after Sept. 5 will be accepted.

Earl Lora of Salem, county ASC office manager, said results will be available Friday. Each community elects a five-man committee. Chairmen and vice chairmen become delegates to the county convention this fall and will elect a county ASC committee for another year.

Twin Lavatories Hike Beauty, Convenience of Bathroom

Whether you are planning a new home or remodeling your present one, you can double the beauty and double the convenience of your bathroom by having twin lavatories installed.

A second lavatory will not only add an extra decorative touch to your bathroom, but it will also ease the morning and evening rush hour tie-up.

And these benefits are realized without doubling the cost, advises information Bureau. When the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Institute is installed for one lavatory, the addition of a second one is a simple and economical matter.

Twin lavatories — or his and hers, if you prefer — can be placed side by side, at an angle to each other or back to back. Interesting ideas about styles and location for lavatories and other bathroom fixtures are found in the booklet, "Modern Bathroom Plans," available from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago 1, Ill., for 10 cents.

There are models mounted to the wall that feature ledge and shelf area for cosmetics and shaving accessories, and others that are recessed in attractive counter tops. Lavatory basins are available in oval, rectangular and off-center design to best suit your needs and the styling of your bathroom.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: We intend to have a concrete swimming pool built near our house. Some time ago I read about gunite pools. Are they concrete? Can they be built to a desired size and shape?

ANSWER: Yes, a gunite pool is concrete. The difference is that the mixture is applied by pneumatic pressure through a kind of gun. A gunite pool can be installed only where the soil is not too sandy. It can be built to any desired size and shape.

QUESTION: We are having a table refinished. The man doing the job says he will use a fuming process. Can you tell us whether this is necessary?

ANSWER: We assume he told you what fuming is, but just in case it's exposing the wood to ammonia fumes in an air-tight box or room. Veteran wood finishers say this process allows the stain to penetrate more deeply and color more evenly. We've never had any trouble with good quality commercial stains, even without resorting to fuming.

Installation of Floor Tricky Unless You're Experienced

We have a stock answer for readers who ask about a do-it-yourself installation of a hardwood floor. Don't try it, we always advise, unless you have had some experience in working with wood. On the other hand, assuming that you have such experience, you probably will get a better result than you expected if you work carefully and follow certain fundamentals.

Hardwood flooring comes in oak, maple, birch, beech, pecan, walnut and several other varieties which are a bit more difficult to obtain. All these woods are available in strips, planks, unit blocks and parquet. There are different widths, several grades and both tongue-and-grooved and square-edged styles.

THIS DISCUSSION will be confined to strip flooring—the long strips of wood you see in most homes that have hardwood floors. It also will be confined to the tongue-and-grooved type, since this makes a neater job and is stronger.

Whether the floor is being laid over an old one or over a rough subfloor, the method of installation is pretty much the same. Two preliminary steps are necessary. Be sure any loose boards are nailed down securely. And cover the floor with strips of building paper, placing them lengthwise in the same direction in which the flooring will be laid. If there is a baseboard, remove it before starting the project.

THE FIRST STRIP of wood is laid parallel to the wall but with a space of from one-quarter to one-half an inch to allow for possible expansion. The groove of the board should be facing the wall, with the tongue facing the center of the room. This first strip is face-nailed; that is, nailed through the top of the board into the subfloor or old floor. The nails should be placed at intervals of about 10 inches. Next, the same board is nailed through the tongue into the floor beneath. The nailing should be at a 45-degree angle, because if it is done straight down, the tongue will split. It is almost impossible to drive a nail all the way down with a hammer, as the head of the hammer will damage the tongue. Therefore, drive the nail until it is almost flush with the wood, then use a nailset to drive it the rest of the way.

EACH SUCCEEDING board is then placed so that its groove fits over the tongue of the preceding strip. The tongue of each board is nailed in the manner just described, but there is no face nailing. Where the groove of one board does not easily fit over the tongue of another, place the groove of a short length of scrap flooring over the tongue of the board about to be nailed. Hammer the sides of the scrap, thus driving the flooring together without damaging the wood. The hammer marks will show only in the piece of scrap wood.

FROM THERE ON the procedure is the same. When you get close to the other side of the room, you may find that you do not have sufficient room to toe nail the last two rows of boards.

The row next to last can be fitted in place without nailing, but be sure it is a snug fit. The last row will have to be face nailed, just as you did with the first row of boards. It may be necessary to do some sawing to get a proper fit which will be the case in other places in the room, such as near a doorway.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: About two years ago I made a small patch in the plaster wall of our bedroom. I recall that I had quite a bit of trouble because, after I had the patch nicely smoothed out, it shrank considerably.

I added more plaster, but had a hard time making it adhere to the previous mixture. I have to do a similar job, but would like to avoid the trouble I had the last time. What is your advice?

ANSWER: You should take the shrinkage problem into account by doing the job in two parts. First, after wetting down the area thoroughly, apply the patching plaster, pressing it in firmly. But do not fill it in to the top. Halt the project right there and let the plaster harden. And this is the vital point: do not smooth the surface of this first application! It is by leaving this first patch in its rough state that you will be making certain that the second application adheres properly. When the first coat is dry, apply a second, bringing it the tiniest fraction of an inch above the level of the surrounding area. This time you want a smooth surface and one that features over the edges of the patch. When the repaired section is dry, it will be even with the rest of the wall or a tiny fraction above it. If it is above, level it off with fine sandpaper. Dust off any powdery residue, brush with a thin shellac or glue size and, when that is dry, do your painting.

QUESTION: I plan on making a wooden workbench. What kind of wood should I use?

ANSWER: Maple is probably the best from the standpoint of toughness and strength. But birch, beech, fir and any one of several others would be satisfactory.

Highest Winds Can't Ruffle Gale-Resistant Asphalt Roof

Anna, Bessie, Carla, Debbie, Esther, Frances—not movie starlets, but names announced by the U.S. Weather Bureau for hurricanes anticipated in 1961.

The Weather Bureau list will have special meaning for those families in the "hurricane belt," but it should serve as a reminder to home owners throughout the country of the destruction high winds and heavy rains can cause. Actually, winds of hurricane force—75 miles per hour or higher—have been recorded officially in at least 39 states.

When a severe windstorm nears, a family hurries for shelter, but they can't hide their house. It should be built to take weather's worst blows.

The roof is particularly important. If it's badly damaged by high winds, it can open the way to extensive damage inside the house from heavy rain that usually accompanies wind storms.

Home owners who live in areas subject to high winds can protect their houses against wind storm damage with a roof of asphalt shingles applied to resist winds.

Three principal methods are used by roofing contractors to apply asphalt shingles to resist winds:

1. Self-sealing method. Shingles with a factory-applied backing of adhesive are applied in the conventional manner. The self-sealing adhesive bonds each shingle tab firmly to the underlying shingle.

2. Interlocking method. Using asphalt shingles with a special locking device—usually tabs which slide into slots—the roofers locks each shingle to adjacent shingles. This provides a roof that is highly wind-resistant and attractive.

3. Hand application. Asphalt shingles are sealed down with a spot of quick-setting asphalt cement under each tab.

Wind-resistant applications of asphalt shingles have passed severe wind-tunnel tests and, more important, have withstood for years the actual ravages of hurricanes and other storms.

How To Eliminate Tree Roots In Home Sewer Lines

On the surface, trees are a beautiful addition to any property, but below ground, the tree's roots may be at work penetrating the home's sewer line. The result is considerable inconvenience. In fact, a sufficient growth of tree roots into the pipe can completely block the line.

You can determine whether you have a root problem by the way your system is functioning. If you experience frequent stoppages, it is likely that the trouble is caused by the penetration of roots. Their growth is relentless and the problems that result are constant, points out the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

To eliminate the problems of improper drainage and still save the trees that are causing the trouble, there are several solutions.

Roots will penetrate piping only when attracted by the presence of water which has leaked out either through the walls of the pipe or through faulty joints.

Therefore, as water leaking from the pipes is actually inducing the growth and penetration of the roots, the lasting answer would be the installation of new lines with permanently sealed joints.

Other solutions are available, too. Your plumbing contractor stocks a special solvent that can be passed through the lines to dissolve the roots. Also, a process may be employed whereby the roots are chopped out and away from the sewer line.

But, as long as water continues to leak from the pipe or joints, the root growth will continue and penetration will recur.

The Fruits of Labor

There will not be many, if any, big Labor Day parades today such as marked the origination of the observance in 1882.

There will be few, if any, mass convocations of working men to hear inspiring speeches. There will be some formal Labor Day statements by top-ranking leaders of organized unions, probably a statement by President Kennedy to accompany his formal proclamation of the legal holiday and probably a statement by the secretary of labor.

The laboring men who hear these messages will receive them by way of mass communications media rather than in person. They will be at home or on the road or at their beach cottages or visiting relatives.

They will mostly be with their families, for Labor Day, like most other major holidays in the United States, has become a family day.

IT HAS BECOME a family day because few people directly associate it in their minds with the yearnings and the battles of working men who 80 years ago were trying to win for themselves a little more time to spend with their families and a little more money to spend on their families.

How it is a time to relax with the family, or to take the family for a day's or a weekend's outing, or to start the fall chores on the family homestead, or to close up the family's summer cottage, or to take the season's last fling in the family boat, or to complete the preparations for sending the children off to school or to engage in any of dozens of other pursuits in which the whole family takes part.

Even those who have worries about their vocations will not feel much kinship for the original Labor Day celebrants.

For some who have suffered the setbacks of two recessions, the problem is to work more hours, not fewer. For some who have been displaced by the modern Industrial Revolution, it is a problem of leaving an old skill and going to a new one. For some who have fared well in this economic system the problem is to find the money to pay the taxes on their incomes.

The problems and the pleasures of this Labor Day know no classes. Virtually all men are working men, and while they seek various symbols of status in a fluid society, their seeking bears little relation to the old concept of Labor Day.

THAT IS THE characteristic of the American Labor Day. It is what the originators of the observance really were after, although the short-term goals they were fighting for so preoccupied them they probably did not know it.

The things the old-timers sought have become commonplace in a society where Industry and Labor together, though often behaving as enemies, have produced an economic wealth beyond the dreams of the generation just past.

Remove the capital letters from industry and labor, and they are words which are synonymous.

There is not much attraction any more for capitalizing on the class distinctions that once separated them into warring camps.

It is the accepted thing to spend the day with the family enjoying the fruits of one's labor, whatever it is.

Battle of the Imitators

Keen-eyed observers of the cold war sometimes wonder whether the East and West have gotten their ideological wires crossed as they race to outdistance each other as the earthly saviors of mankind.

Support for their musing turned up in an Associated Press survey of what some of the world's top scientists think of the scientific contest between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Said an Australian physicist: "While we in the West with our democratic systems are striving hard to achieve a 'welfare state,' Russia is doing nothing of the kind. Russia's whole system is designed in such a way that it will afford a better standard of living only to those who educate and edify themselves."

HIS COMMENT referred to the educated elite of Russia, particularly in the sciences, who now occupy the most enviable positions in the Communist society in terms of money, living conditions, working conditions and personal freedom.

The moral of his comment, of course, is that the Russian Communists are trying to emulate Western scientific achievements by adopting Western methods — personal reward as an incentive for greater accomplishment.

That is contrary to Marxism, which says that everybody in the great classless society will put into it all he can and take out only what he needs. And he will do it because of his devotion to the society itself, and not to himself and his wants.

On the other side of the Iron Curtain, says the Australian physicist, capitalist societies which achieved pre-eminence in history are turning more and more to the socialist concept. The motive is sincere: They are trying to prove, in the face of communism's claims to the contrary, that they have humanitarian concern for people, too.

BUT THIS is based upon a false premise, the Communist lie that true democracy is not humanitarian. The history of the fight for freedom shows that it was based upon the rights and privileges of the individual. The fact that freedom must be fought for is proof enough that the rights and privileges accrue to those who exert themselves, whether the rights and privileges are political or economic.

The question is at the heart of the efforts of Newburgh, N.Y., to revamp its welfare system. That little city decided its welfare should not be had for the mere asking, but that the individual recipient has a responsibility to society which he must demonstrate before he is eligible to receive its collective benefits.

What it boils down to is that the Russian Communists have learned through 40-odd years of experience that private incentive is the surest way to social success. They therefore have decided to imitate Western methods in those areas where they are most eager to imitate Western achievements.

The next question is inevitable: Can the West stay ahead of the Communists by abandoning its own methods and imitating theirs?

Comfort In Those Sub Reports

Moscow's indignant reports that submerged submarines have been invading her territorial waters strikes us much the same way as afterthoughts on 1960's famed U-2 incident did: If the subs belong to the United States, it's comforting to know they are on the job.

We don't know, of course, that submarines actually have been meandering in Soviet seas. It would be characteristic of the Kremlin to toss out such a report to divert attention from the fact Russian submarines have been seen close to American coastlines.

But it is reassuring to think that the reports are true and that the boats, as the Soviets obviously suspect, are from the U.S. fleet.

They probably are not the Polaris-firing type. That would be a bit too risky. Besides, the beauty of the missile subs is that they don't have to get that close to Russia to be in a position to do their work.

But, as he old saying goes, all is fair in war. Everyone regretted the U-2 incident because the pilot and his plane got caught; when the original shock of that wore off, it was taken as a sign of alertness that the flights had been taking place.

As long as they don't get caught, it won't bother us a bit to have submarines nosing around Russian waters to see what is going on there.

Once Over

New York is having two race meetings, the Peace-at-Belmont and the Cement-at-Aqueduct sessions. The strike and picket lines, which caused Aqueduct meeting to be switched to Belmont, were scratched, but too late to stage reverse switch. And, besides, a cement, gravel and sand workers strike had prevented needed track improvements at the Big A, or Big Absentee.

There are cement mixers but no horse players at Aqueduct. And at Belmont the cry is, "Who needs cement or gravel?" In fact, gravel is barred there, even in voices of husky bettors. (Gravel trucks get in by card only.)

Aqueduct has the greater supply of seats and windows, so switch will cost race association and the state a mint of folding money, mostly in $2 bills.

But Belmont has beauty, style and tradition. It has almost no cement in its bloodlines. The old oaks were there before first picket was born.

There are ancient elms that never looked down on an "Unfair" banner. Belmont has chrysanthemums older than John L. Lewis, and shrubs that predate earliest American mediation board.

It can boast flower beds that were born before Samuel Gompers. It can boast flower beds that were born before Samuel Gompers.

Meanwhile Gov. Rockefeller's mediation board is set to decide the labor issue, and it is reported suffering from weak ankles due to overtraining. Stable information is that it will get back into form fast and soon be fit and ready.

SUGGESTED TITLE for Harry Truman TV series: "Mr. Chips-on-Shoulder Comes To Town."

A beer lollipop is being sold in England. Junior is going to raise a ruckus when he finds Dad has taken the last one.

Beer-on-stick has no alcohol, but just a simulated flavor of hops, the makers insist. Let's hope so. Who wants the kids tottering around with a lollipop hanger?

Bronx Zoo intends to move bars and fences separating people from the animals. World behavior today is such that PEOPLE FRIGHTEN ANIMALS. Animals will be kept in moats, pits and protected fields where they can have comfort of knowing people are not close enough to harm them.

Whatever became of 1961 summer? It just went thattaway.

Labor Is King

By JOHN N. ADAMS

Special Brush-Moore Writer

"The darkest hour in any man's life is when he sits down to plan how to get money without earning it," the great abolitionist, Horace Greely, editorialized some hundred years ago.

Mr. Greely was attacking the exploitation of slaves in the days preceding the Civil War but the admonition has a much broader connotation today than it did then. It is a message for all Americans — the workingman, the industrialist and the union leader — to heed in this Labor Day.

Never before have we Americans enjoyed wages and benefits so high for so little service returned.

Never before in history has a labor leader wielded the power to paralyze a nation of 180 million people.

Today, Labor is king. It can command and expect compliance of our national leaders.

THE AMERICAN workingman's standard of living is the highest in the world. He has the money for all the necessities of life and most of the luxuries. If he is unemployed, he can look to a paternalistic government for subsistence.

But has this power and wealth been a blessing or has it created self-satisfaction and complacency among the rank and file?

Have union leaders become so preoccupied with jockeying for higher wages and prestige that they neither see or heed the warning to our economy and our national security?

The warning signals are clear. Free nations of Europe, banding together in the Common Market, seriously challenge our position in world commerce.

Foreign imports undersell American-made products in the domestic markets.

There is a migration of industry from our shores to South America, Europe and Australia where the tax and labor climate is more favorable.

High labor costs are forcing other manufacturers to convert to automation for surviving.

FEATHERBEDDING, work stoppages, and jurisdictional disputes are luxuries that we no longer can afford.

We are a fat and prosperous country and for a while we can live on our own fat. England tried it and failed and is now seeking membership in the Common Market to save itself from economic disaster.

After being ahead of the world in atomic and nuclear research we are losing this advantage to Russia and are trailing the Communists in space exploration. Khrushchev often has said he will bury us and last month in his Red heaven program, gave the blueprint of how he intends to do it.

Soviet industrial output will hit 500 per cent of its present level by 1980, and Russia can at last begin its transition to "pure" communism, according to Nikita.

By then, the Russian worker will have a six-hour day. He can look forward to rent-free housing with free gas and electricity, free public public transportation, free medical care, he promises. To make things even easier, public catering will begin to replace meals at home.

"Socialism inevitably will take over from capitalism everywhere," is the full meaning of the Soviet leader's ominous tirade.

AFTER A LONG LOOK, we have dismissed the most grandiose portions of the new Communist manifesto as so much eye-wash but of the avowed intent to rule the world there is no doubt and the threat of a fiercer class war ahead is unmistakably clear.

When Adolf Hitler's verbose book "Mein Kampf" appeared in 1925 it was regarded as the boring rantings of a man with a warped mind. Yet the book was the prelude to the New Order, to the near triumph of the "Master Race" and the clear blueprint of the Third Reich.

Like "Mein Kampf," Khrushchev's new manifesto lays down the party line and serves notice to the world that international communism is still the implacable foe of free men and free nations, of every man and every nation that refuses to bow to its domination.

It is no time for complacency in America. It is no time for sitting down to plan how to get money without earning it or to preserve freedom without fighting for it.

It is Labor's responsibility to bargain in good faith for the greatest good for America and the free world.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Back there on the Continent, just this side of the barbed wire, there are prime ministers and tycoons and powerful labor chiefs who first ask you about Jimmy Hoffa and then permit you to talk of lesser matters such as Berlin.

I flew back with one question resounding inside me like an old tune — is this man Hoffa seriously able to challenge your government at a moment like this, and what does it mean?

So I return to find Hoffa, instead, besieging four small locals in Cincinnati which want out. And what is startling is the size of the besieging force.

A good count revealed that on the night of Sunday, Aug. 27, the $120,000-a-year Hoffa hove into town with his usual consortium and joined others in 54 rooms at the Hotel Gibson. And Jimmy H. then combined forces with his intellectual privy counselor Harold Gibbons, who already had gathered some 32 men over the last few weeks. There also were 250 paid Teamsters officials on the spot. They had come in from Kentucky, Ohio and points east.

IN ADDITION to the thousands of dollars this took out of the Teamsters' highly liquid assets, Jimmy H. spent some $35,000 to $40,000 to promote a Music Hall mass meeting — which drew fewer people than Berlin's Resi "Wasserspiel" night club where the attraction is a colored water fountain.

Furthermore he personally gave orders to special organizing squads to contact every one of the 4,000 rebels led by Jim Luken, a man with guts.

Luken once looked at me as though I were queer when I told him he was a hero for having stood up against Hoffa and his Ohio machine for years.

Why this concentration by airlift in Cincinnati?

There are as many reasons as Hoffa has ambition. First, Jim Luken, who has been protecting his locals and funds since 1954 from the invaders, has jack-and-the-beanstalked Hoffa by stopping the powerful Teamsters chief's forward thrust.

Hoffa, until the revolt of Luken's 4,000, was dreaming or organizing a vast sports empire under a title — the Federation of Professional Athletes.

It can be reported here that Hoffa personally and secretly has approached one of the top figures in the American Basketball League and another in the National Football League.

HOFFA WANTED to sign up hundreds of colorful players and then move from there to unionizing all sports played in any type of arena — and then on to organizing the arenas' work staff, too.

Hoffa has also tried to organize automobile race drivers in the stock car field as well as 300,000 race track employees.

His imagination matched his nerve. Hoffa, who now speaks of himself in the third person, saw himself at the head of a federation of one million athletes, trainers, coaches — all the way down the line.

All this he planned when he thought his Teamsters were solidly behind him. But then out right rebellion, disaffiliation and organization of powerful opposition rank and file movements spread spontaneously right across the country — from Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Sikeston, Mo., to San Francisco, New York, Philadelphia, New Jersey, Tucson, and now I hear rumblings from elsewhere in the Southwest.

THIS BITTERNESS flared because Jimmy Hoffa — who should have been the last to forget — forgot the basic law of Teamsterdom. He brushed aside the fact that the Teamsters are really a coalition of baronies — and for every barony there is a baron. And every baron believes his domain to be inviolate.

I do not refer, of course, to Hoffa's opponents such as Jim Luken. I refer to the men in each city who had been looking to Hoffa for protection — and suddenly found themselves completely taken over by their own little brother after the Miami Beach convention.

Hoffa has forgotten that he has had predecessors as powerful as he who never tried to centralize power over all Teamsters in the national office. Old Dan Tobin, the grandee of labor who dominated both the AFL and the Teamsters until some 10 years ago, just never, never came into New York for example.

Pink cheeked Dave Beck, slipped into New York merely to live well at the Waldorf for a few days. Yet, like Tobin, he never tried to tell the locals what to do. But Hoffa has — all over the nation.

WHAT'S MORE, the new Teamsters constitution gives him the power to expel whomever he wants.

If the Cincinnati Teamsters are successful, they may provide just the chemistry needed for enough defections to take some 10,000 to 20,000 truckdrivers out of the empire.

If this happens, there is good reason to believe that the AFL-CIO will charter a rival Teamsters federation and battle it out right across the land.

Hoffa is tough but he doesn't want that kind of fight. And that's what the empire's prime minister Harold Gibbons meant when he told a small group in Cincinnati just the other week — it's not so much the 4,000 drivers here which worries us, it's the other 1½ million.

Never underestimate the power of George Meany's labor veterans when they turn on the fury.

Panhandlers' Paradise

By J. C. RANDAL

Beggars, minstrels and street Arabs are cashing in on tourists who throng St.-Germain-des-Près hoping to meet the existentialists who made the Left Bank neighborhood famous just after the war.

The serious Existentialists — and their shaggy, pre-beatnik hangers-on — disappeared long ago, abandoning the neighborhood to Middle-West college girls and the well-heeled French sports car crowd.

But still the aura of literature and philosophy works its charms. One of the most successful St. Germain-des-Près cafes describes itself on its checks — somewhat nostalgically according to veteran observers — as the "Rendezvous of the intellectual elite."

Seated on small chairs on the crowded open air cafe terraces, the tourists are fair game for the various panhandlers who start work at aperitif time and continue until the cafes close early the next morning.

A typical evening revealed — not necessarily in order of appearance of importance — the following types of local color in search of a handout:

A nun, gypsies with a trained goat, peanut vendors (throughout the evening), horse poachers making like Caruso, a two-man clarinet and guitar jazz combo, an old woman playing a broken and ill-tuned zither.

A strapping and apparently healthy young man selling postcards armed with a government card indicating he was a "mutilated war veteran," gypsies with a trained bear, a woman selling mechanical dogs, a youth from Martinique singing songs from the Caribbean, a woman selling literature from a religious sect and a group of young bearded Americans singing folk songs.

Missing from the usual lineup was a man with walking shoes and a visor-backward cap who for the last eight years has been collecting "the last few cents" needed to get him started on an around-the-world bicycle trip.

Veteran people watchers are wondering whether he has really left on his globe-girdling journey or just migrated to St. Tropez, the summer watering spot for the St.-Germain-des-Près crowd.

In any case, one Frenchman advised a newly arrived American couple who had just donated a small sum to a tendered hand: "Unless you change your way of life soon, you'll never be able to afford to live in France."

Cold, Snow Trap Labor Day Vacationers In Rockies

DENVER (AP)—Record-breaking snow and cold trapped Labor Day weekend vacationers in the Colorado Rockies Sunday.

The sheriff's office in Golden, 18 miles west of Denver, said six persons were reported stranded in the Decker area, west of Golden in the mountains.

Authorities said there were thousands of hikers, campers and fishermen in the mountains and feared they wouldn't know perhaps for days because of blocked roads and skimpy communications whether the vacationers were in danger.

Up to 18 inches of snow was reported at Conifer, about 35 miles southwest of Denver. There was a foot at Leadville, 11 inches at Fraser and 7 inches at Central City.

It was the earliest snow ever reported in Denver. The temperature dropped to 33 and hovered there for several hours Sunday morning. It was the coldest Sept. 3 since Weather Bureau records were started. The old record was 38, set in 1874.

Although the Weather Bureau had predicted snow for the high mountains, many Colorado residents were caught by surprise and exchanged bermudas and bikinis for mittens and mufflers.

From 12 to 14 inches fell on U.S. Highway 6 at Loveland Pass, 11,922 feet high on the Continental Divide. The highway was snow-packed, and chains required.

Scenic Trail Ridge Road, 12,183 feet high in the Rocky Mountain National Park, was closed Saturday. So was the road from Echo Lake to the summit of Mount Evans, 14,260 feet high. Many of the dirt roads and trails used by Labor Day weekend vacationers undoubtedly were blocked.

The storm hit the area from Colorado Springs north to the Wyoming border and from Kansas west to the top of the Continental Divide.

It was caused when a moist Pacific air mass collided with the 14,000 foot high Rockies and was forced up. The resultant cooling turned the moisture into snow.

Most of the snow melted as it fell at Denver, still warm from August's 90-degree temperatures. But shade trees in full foliage bent to the ground under the weight of the wet snow.

The Weather Bureau forecast the snow would turn to intermittent rain that Monday would be partly cloudy and warmer.

UAW

wanted 15 per cent of the firm's profits for some 325,000 members at GM plants. That's what it won for its 23,000 production employees at American Motors.

Reuther had warned that the UAW's profit sharing demand was "a total proposal and its individual items can not be isolated."

Fearful Strike Wednesday
Before the union scrapped its latest demand, observers here expected a strike would be called against GM at 10 a.m. Wednesday because General Motors, Ford Motor Company and Chrysler Corp., had been on record against profit sharing.

GM Vice President Louis Stenson described the UAW's proposals as "the better elements of the AMC agreement and what they demanded before."

GM's offer, which parallels those made by Ford and Chrysler, would give some of the new improved fringe benefits the union won at AMC.

The UAW proposed to GM that workers contribute, as they would at AMC, a portion of profits shared to help meet cost of new fringe benefits such as:

—Payment of one-half the cost of hospital-medical insurance, which now is deducted from weekly pay checks.

—Increased pensions to $2.80 a month for each year of service. The current rate is $2.50 for all years since 1958, $2.43 for 1958 and $2.40 for previous years.

—Pay equal to 65 per cent of the straight time hourly rate for any hours fewer than 40 in a short work week.

Increased supplemental unemployment benefits (aid on top of state unemployment compensation) to 62 per cent of gross pay for up to 52 weeks. The current rate is 65 per cent of net pay for up to 39 weeks.

—A moving allowance for employees following their jobs elsewhere.

Under the AMC plan, workers would receive 10 per cent in cash to help pay for these benefits—after the first 10 per cent of profits was set aside for stockholders. In addition, workers would get a five per cent bonus in AMC stock.

Based on 1960 before-tax earnings, the union's proposed profit-sharing plan would have cost GM $219 million. GM's before-tax profits were $2,038 billion. Its net worth is figured at $5.8 billion and stockholders would be entitled to deduct 10 per cent in profits equal to this before splitting with workers.

Reuther said this would have given an hourly rated worker $511 a year, or the equivalent of 24 cents an hour.

At the turn of the century, the pre-dinner period from 5 to 7 p.m. in Paris was called the "green hour" because of the great quantity of green absinthe consumed on cafe terraces.

254 Persons Die In Traffic

Weather Lures Millions to Roads

Traffic 254
Boating 14
Drowning 22
Miscellaneous 33
Total 323

By The Associated Press
The Labor Day holiday death toll inched steadily upward Sunday as near-perfect weather lured millions of motorists to vacation spots.

Deaths in traffic numbered 254 in boating 14, by drowning 22, and in miscellaneous accidents 33. The over-all death toll reached 323.

Most of the traffic victims died one at a time in scattered accidents, but there were several multiple fatality accidents.

A head-on crash in Illinois near Keokuk, Iowa, claimed three lives Sunday morning. A three-car pile-up in the Great Salt Lake Desert in western Utah killed a man and two children. Three others died when a car slammed into a truck, then bounced into the path of another truck, on the West Virginia Turnpike near Beckley.

The National Safety Council has estimated 420 Americans may die in traffic accidents before the 78-hour holiday ends at midnight Monday. The death count began at 6 p.m. local time Friday.

The record for traffic fatalities on any Labor Day weekend was set in 1951 when 461 persons were killed.

Last year, motor vehicle accidents on the Labor Day weekend cost 415 lives.

This year's estimated death toll is above a pre-holiday survey conducted by The Associated Press. The survey ran from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18, to midnight Monday, Aug. 21. Deaths over that weekend totaled 390 in traffic, 14 in boating, 47 in drownings and 97 in the miscellaneous class for a total of 548.

sumption of nuclear experiments in the air threatens the world with the poisoning hazards of radioactive fallout.

Development of a 100-megaton bomb — Khrushchev's boast of Russia's potential—could lead to the "useless extermination of people," the scientists said.

The Kennedy-Macmillan proposal, on the basis of currently publicized technical knowhow, would limit any future tests to underground chasms or to outer space.

"Their aim in this proposal is to protect mankind from the increasing hazards from atmospheric pollution and to contribute to the reduction of international tensions," the statement said.

They urged Khrushchev to "cable his immediate acceptance of this offer and his cessation of further atmospheric tests."

They set a deadline on the proposal. Calling on Khrushchev to cooperate by Sept. 9 in an agreement at Geneva, where negotiations on a broad test ban treaty have dragged on for nearly three years, the statement said the United States and Great Britain "sincerely hope that the Soviet Union will accept this offer, which remains open for the period indicated."

The statement was put out after Kennedy had conferred by telephone with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who was in Washington while the President joined his family at this Cape Cod resort. The Kennedy-Rusk conversations also dealt with Russia's latest note on Berlin.

Akron Girl Is Bride of Salem Man

Nancy Jane Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Magwood Baker of 32 Waldorf Drive, Akron, became the bride of Donald James Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Orr of 885 S. Lincoln Ave., Saturday afternoon at 5:30 in the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Akron.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Noel Calhoun officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore a short gown of imported white cotton organdy over blue bouquet taffeta, designed with a scoop neck, fitted bodice, short sleeves and lace cummerbund. Matching lace edged the hemline of the bouffant skirt which was clipped to form a short train. Her headpiece was a pale bouquet taffeta rose with a short illusion veil. She carried butterfly orchids and stephanotis in a modified crescent arrangement.

Her attendants, Miss Susan Baker and Mrs. Elizabeth Milford, sisters of the bride, were attired alike in gowns of heart-beat blue chiffon taffeta with scooped neckline, short sleeves, fitted bodice with cummerbund of matching material at the waist and a bell shaped skirt. Their headpieces were modified bows topped with a small rose and a short veil of matching blue. They carried a bow-knot arrangement of delphinium and asters shaded from blue to purple.

Merlin Bell of Seymour, Ind., served as best man. Ushers were Jerry Kessel of Wheaton, Ill., James Walter of Cleveland, William Young of Berea, Richard Milford of Akron, Robert Hackett of Chicago and Lawrence Baker Jr. of Akron.

The reception was held in the Woman's City Club in Akron.

For her going away dress the bride chose a champagne colored cotton knit sheath with contrasting brown accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Following their honeymoon trip to San Francisco and Monterey, Calif., the couple will make their home in Berkeley, Calif., where the bridegroom is employed as a chemical engineer with Standard Oil Co.

Miss Jane Bower was the soloist and Mrs. Hiatt, the organist. The bride wore a gown of white bouquet taffeta designed with a bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace trimmed with pearls, and bracelet length sleeves. A tuck at the waist gave fullness to the skirt and a panel extended from the neckline in back and gave fullness to the chapel length train. She carried a bouquet of feathered fugi mums with a center corsage of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Susan Lamb, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Henderson of Salem, Miss Marcia Bing of Toledo and Miss Phyllis Wilson of Ashtabula.

The attendants wore sheath dresses of peony color designed with oval necklines. Cummerbunds of satin encircled the waists and were finished with princess panels and roses. Their caps were of tiny tiers of plated ruffles with bouffant veils. The maid of honor carried white carnations with pink asters, and the bridesmaids carried shell pink carnations with pink asters.

Fred Henderson of Salem served as best man. The ushers were William Boyland of Akron, Louis De Wein of Ashtabula and Thomas Jeffers of Columbus.

The bride's mother wore a champagne organza sheath dress with organza coat and a corsage of shell pink sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony the reception was held at The Whitehouse in Columbus. The table was centered with a four-tier cake and colored mum arrangements. Serving at the reception were Miss Betty Bing of Toledo, Miss Jane Bower of Parkersburg, W. Va., Miss Nekki Kessler of Columbus and Miss Judy Farry of Mansfield.

The bride is a junior at Ohio State University and is employed by the Union Co.

The bridegroom is a senior at Ohio State University. He will graduate in December.

The bride chose a navy blue suit with matching accessories for the honeymoon trip to Canada. They will reside at 935 Proprietors Ave., Worthington, when they return from their trip.

Sears Official Heads Radio Free Europe

NEW YORK — Charles H. Kellstadt, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck and Co., has been named national chairman of the Radio Free Europe Fund, the private American organization which supports Radio Free Europe.

Kellstadt succeeds W. B. Murphy, president of Campbell Soup Co., as national chairman of the RFE Fund.

A native of Columbus, O., Mr. Kellstadt joined Sears' retail organization in Cleveland in 1932, following 15 years' experience in merchandising in Akron and Cleveland. He managed Sears' Cleveland group of retail stores for 14 years, when he was named national retail merchandising manager at Sears' headquarters in Chicago.

Mrs. Gary M. Centofanti

Miss Delores J. Rallo of 637 1/2 Woodland Ave. became the bride of Gary M. Centofanti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rice of 247 E. 5th St., Saturday morning at 11:30 in St. Paul's Catholic Church.

Rev. Richard Gaffney officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with arrangements of white pompons and Gladioli, palms and grape ivy.

Miss Sarah Colman, organist, gave selections of the wedding mass and Ave Maria.

The bride wore a dress of silk organza and net over taffeta, intermission length, scooped neckline of embroidered lace, cap sleeves and a large bow in back. Her illusion shoulder length veil was held in place with a crown of mother of pearl rosettes and leaves. She wore a drop pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a colonial style bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Gerald Utley of Alliance was the matron of honor. She wore a street length dress with full skirt of steel blue chiffon over taffeta and a matching Dior bow head piece.

She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and white pompons.

Robert DeCrow was the best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rice. A two-tiered wedding cake decorated in silver and white roses centered the buffet table.

Miss Louise Mazzetti of Alliance served. Miss Arlene Tausch registered 50 guests from Alliance, Sebring and Beechwood.

The bride is a graduate of Alliance High School and Hannah E. Mullins School of Practical Nursing. She is employed at City Hospital. The bridegroom attended Salem High School and served three years in the Army. He is employed at City Hospital.

The bride chose a two-piece green brocade sheath dress with black accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet for the honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y. They will reside on Woodlane Ave.

Waithman-Taylor Vows Are Heard At Winona

Miss Paula K. Waithman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Waithman of Winona, became the bride of William Taylor, son of Mrs. Olive Taylor of Winona, Thursday evening at 8:30.

Rev. Frank Tully officiated at the double ring ceremony in the Winona Methodist Church before an altar banked with palms and lighted with candelabra.

Mrs. Donald Dusenberry was the organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her mother and father. She wore a nylon sheer gown with tiered lace bodice and ballerina skirt. Her short nylon illusion veil was attached to a satin head band. She carried a white colonial bouquet of white roses.

Miss Bonnie Waithman, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a pink nylon ballerina dress and carried a colonial corsage of pink roses and white baby mums.

John Smith Jr. of RD 3, Salem, served as best man. Ushers were Walter Holmes, uncle of the bride, and James Taylor, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a light blue lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white baby mums and tea roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a floral print dress with white accessories and a corsage of white baby mums and tea roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social rooms.

A two-tier wedding cake topped with a bride and bridegroom centered the table laid in white linen with white tapers and ivy garlands tied with nosegays of baby mums in white and pink.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. Phil Calvin of RD 5, Salem, Mrs. Ed Cameron of Damascus and Miss Carol John of RD 3, Salem all cousins of the bride.

Miss Sue Waithman and Miss

Mrs. William Taylor

Georgia Gilbert presided at the gift table. Mrs. Wells Rankin, sister of the bridegroom, registered 140 guests from Salem, Damascus, Pittsburgh, Hanoverton, New Garden, Lisbon and Edinburg, Pa.

The bride is a graduate of United Local High School with the class of 1961.

The bridegroom is a graduate of United Local High School with the class of 1960. He is attending Bliss College in Columbus.

For her going away outfit the bride chose an olive green sheath dress with white accessories and her wedding corsage.

Aren't We Lucky?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—They call it Labor Day, when the nation takes a holiday and honors work by abstaining from it.

Labor Day?

It's just another day on the job for the bus driver, the sailor at sea, bartenders, airplane pilots and hostesses, chefs, waitresses, night club singers and strip-tease dancers.

Labor Day?

It doesn't mean a thing to watchmen, circus elephants, the cop on the beat, railroad engineers and conductors, the men who pull switches in electric power plants, and the fellows who watch the unpushed alarm button that could launch atomic world war.

Labor Day?

It's just business as usual to the lion in the zoo, radio and TV announcers, musicians, druggists, caddies and cabbies, telephone operators, bellhops, movie ushers, busboys and the men who ring church bells.

Labor Day?

What does it mean to racehorses, jockeys, baseball players, hotel desk clerks, forest rangers, bookies, long distance truck drivers, filling station attendants, dairy farmers, people who operate dog kennels, and fellows who wheel around little white carts and sell ice cream sticks to children? It means nothing but the same old daily grind.

Labor Day?

It means even more work for many housewives, traffic cops, lifeguards, ambulance drivers, hospital nurses and doctors on emergency duty, morgue employees, bridge and highway toll collectors, amusement park workers—and pickpockets.

Labor Day?

When you get right down to it, who does get a real rest from toil on Labor Day?

Well, anyway, there's you — and me.

Aren't we the lucky ones?

There are about 177 million volumes in public-school libraries, classroom collections (exclusive of textbooks), and loan collections from public libraries. Current expenditures for books and pamphlets, audio-visual materials, and binding for school libraries are estimated at about $2 per pupil; total expenditures for these purposes in school libraries in 1959-60 were estimated at $35 million, reports the National Education Association.

Mantle Clouts Two As Yankees Win 8-5

Bombers Lead Tigers by 4 1/2

Howard's Homer Nails Decision

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle blasted his 49th and 50th home runs Sunday and went two-up on Babe Ruth's 1927 record pace in leading the New York Yankees to an 8-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The victory stretched the Yanks' American League lead to 4 1/2 games.

Roger Maris failed to connect and fell to seven games ahead of Ruth's record in his chase to break the Babe's mark of 60. Maris has 53 homers and must hit eight in the next 19 games if he is to break the record.

But while all the attention was riveted on Mantle and Maris, the key hit of the game was a towering homer by Elston Howard, who nailed down the decision with a ninth inning homer with two on, after Mantle had tied it with his second blast.

The Tigers had trailed right from the first inning until they went ahead in the ninth with two runs on two hits and an error by relief pitcher Luis Arroyo.

That set the stage for the Yankees rally. Gerry Staley came in to pitch for the Tigers. With one ball on Mantle, Mickey clouted Staley's next pitch into the right field bleachers and tied it at 5-4.

Now that Mantle has reached the 50 homer mark, the Yanks have produced another slugging record. It is the first time two players on one team (Mantle and Maris) have hit 50 or more home runs in one season.

Also, Maris and Mantle are only four homers off the all-time two-man record of 107, set by Ruth and Lou Gehrig in 1927.

Arroyo was the winning pitcher, thanks to Mantle and Howard. Howard had struck out as a pinch hitter in the seventh. The decision was his 11th in a row. He also has seven saves along the way. The last time he lost a game was on June 19 to Kansas City.

WHITE SOX CAPTURE PAIR WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chicago White Sox beat the Washington Senators in both games of a doubleheader Sunday, 5-4 and 4-1, closing out their season's schedule against the local team with 13 victories in 18 meetings.

Blue Devils Open Season at Carrollton Friday Night

Injury to Larry McPherson Was Severe Blow

Lisbon QB Job Falls to Sophomore

By LYNN BROWNE

On the 25th of August the Lisbon Blue Devils were looking forward to a good football season, and with sound reasons too.

Coach Bud Bucher had been grooming a 46-man squad, including 12 lettermen and four regulars to meet Carrollton Sept. 8 in their opening game.

The Devils had Larry McPherson, who threw 12 touchdown passes as a sophomore last year, to call the signals again this season.

The return of senior guard Don Tafini, who made the starting team last year but broke his leg in the first game of the season, was expected to bolster the line considerably.

And the Blue Devils would field one of the biggest teams in recent years.

ALTHOUGH THE Buchermen may not have swept the Tri-County League crown they looked like a sure bet to improve on last year's 4-6 record.

At noon Saturday, Aug. 26, all of these facts were still true, and still are today — except one.

Larry McPherson is out for the season due to a broken arm. The injury occurred when Lisbon scrimmaged United Local's Golden Eagles that morning.

Commenting on earlier reports that McPherson may be able to play in the last three or four games of the year, the coach said, "We're not counting on it. It's one of those indefinite things."

Ironically, the first place slot will now be filled by McPherson's younger brother, David.

Dave is reported to be a good ball handler but when Bucher was asked if he is as talented a passer as his older brother, he said, "There's nobody around that can throw as well as Larry."

"He is probably the best passer we've had since big Nick," he added. (Bucher was referring to Dean Nicholson, a 1954 graduate of Lisbon High School, who was selected to the All-State first team).

AFTER BUCHER'S praise of McPherson's passing ability it is relatively safe to assume that the Blue Devils' mentor had planned to go to the air a lot this year and, therefore, now faces the burden of revamping his offense.

It is the feeling of at least one of the other Tri-County League coaches that even though McPherson is out, the other league teams shouldn't count on Lisbon to be a pushover.

As Leetonia coach Ike Farrah put it, "Bud will come up with something; he usually does."

Bucher will have veteran backs Tom Coontz, Jack Kress, Jeff Henry, and Dave Rose to call on if he chooses to change to a ground game and two lettermen in co-captain Steve Korode and Bob Nicholson if he decides to stay in the air.

Slated for the tackle positions are co-captain Larry Buckley, a three year veteran, and 210-pound Larry Peruchetti.

SOPHOMORE DICK ROSE, senior Dave Nichols and Tafini will all see action at guard while Ronnie Grimes will pay the center position.

Although the head mentor seems pleased with the size of his gridders, he is concerned with the fact that they're "not real fast."

Missing from last year's team will be tri-captains Steve Frew, Paul Fry and Ricky Bowling, who were all selected to Tri-County All-Star berths, and Roger McCaughin and Bill McKelvy. Senior letterman Terry Morris is ineligible scholastically.

Lisbon has scheduled two new teams this year in Carrollton and Hubbard. Cardinal Mooney and Carter Jackson were dropped from the schedule to make room for the new teams.

Following is the Blue Devils' Roster:

Lisbon has scheduled two new teams this year in Carrollton and Hubbard. Cardinal Mooney and Carter Jackson were dropped from the schedule to make room for the new teams.

Gordon Scott Fires 66 At Golf Club

Gordon Scott took individual medal honors with a net score of 66 in the weekend golf tourney at the Salem Golf Club.

There was a three-way tie for second place in "A" flight. Vince Moore, Jack Harroff and Dick Lawrence each carded 67's.

In "B" Flight, Bob Davis came out on top with a 70. Tied for second with 71's were William Stevenson, John Hochodol and Bob Pierson.

Orioles Blank Tribe 1-0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ron Hansen's 11th-inning single drove in the only run of the game Sunday as Steve Barber of the Baltimore Orioles blanked the Cleveland Indians 1-0.

Barber, who leads the major leagues with seven shutouts, allowed only five singles as he won his 18th game. Four of Cleveland's hits didn't get out of the infield.

Gary Bell allowed Baltimore only four hits in the 10 innings he worked. Reliever Red Allen walked Jack Brandt and Jim Gentile in opening the Oriole 11th. The runners were sacrificed into scoring position and Hansen drove a single to center off Frank Funk, winning the game.

Browns Will Tangle With Lions Saturday

CLEVELAND (AP)—Coach Paul Brown will be able to judge better Saturday how much his Cleveland Browns have improved since losing the first exhibition game to Detroit three weeks ago, 35-7.

The Browns with three victories under their belts, the latest a 38-6 quelling of the Pittsburgh Steelers in Akron Saturday, meet the Lions at Municipal Stadium here.

Saturday's clash with Detroit will be the last exhibition game and their first appearance at home this season.

Both clubs are expected to go with their regulars for the most part in this final tuneup.

The Lions hold a sizeable margin of pre-season victory over the Browns, winning 11, losing five and tying once.

Ohio is well represented among Detroit's personnel. Jim Martin, formerly of Cleveland's East Tech High and Notre Dame, will be available for place-kicking duties.

Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy, former Ohio State All American, is a threat both as a runner and receiver. Glenn Davis, better known for his track feats, seems to have made the team as a receiver.

The former track star from Barborton regained his football touch after six years away from the game.

Fred Kaiser Running Well Quakers Outplay Rayen... But Morton Not Impressed

Many of the fans who saw the Salem High Quakers roll rather easily over Youngstown Rayen in a football scrimmage at Reilly Stadium Saturday must have left with the impression that the 1961 Quakers might not be so bad after all.

With fullback Freddy Kaiser picking up big yardage on trap plays, Salem managed to score three times during the scrimmage while holding Rayen to a single TD.

Junior halfback Dave Capel also looked good and could work himself up into a starting halfback post before Friday night's opener here against Struthers.

COACH BLAINE MORTON says that senior Jim Gibb still holds a slim edge over Capel but the margin has been closing during pre-season drills.

Rayen registered its only score Saturday on a long pass play which was completed in front of one of Salem's young sophomores.

Coach Ralph Robinette's crew was far under par with numerous regulars out with injuries, including both the first and second string quarterbacks.

FOR THIS REASON, Morton doesn't believe Salem's actual strength can be judged by their showing against Rayen.

"We are still making a lot of mistakes that Salem teams of the past four years didn't make. Except for our traps I wasn't impressed at all," Coach Morton commented after Saturday's scrimmage.

The Quakers still appeared to look weak at the ends. John Panzotti, who is being switched to end from a halfback slot, was sidelined last week with a minor injury. So, when he is ready to get going again, things could improve at end.

Salem's pass defense didn't look particularly sharp Saturday, but Coach Morton believes that these holes can be plugged with the material available.

THE QUAKERS appear to be in pretty good shape on the backfield. Bill Beery at quarterback, Kaiser at fullback, Dave Edling at one halfback and either Gibb or Capel at the other half may give the locals a better crack than the one which performed here last year.

However, if the Quakers are going to have a passing attack of any consequence this season, it appears that it is still going to have to be developed.

With the season's opener less than a week away, Coach Morton scheduled a full practice session for his charges today.

Says No Decision Exists

Russia Denies Pact On Air Corridors

MOSCOW (AP)—The right of public a secret Soviet document, Western commercial planes to use the Berlin air corridors was challenged anew by the Soviet Union in notes to the Western Big Three published Sunday.

No four-power decisions exist on "uncontrolled commercial air transport over the air corridors" or on the use of those aerial facilities by Germans outside the service of the occupation authorities, the Soviet government declared.

The United States, Britain and France were asked to put an end to "unlawful and provocative" actions by West Germany within the divided city.

(In Washington, the State Department said the note was under study. In London, the British Foreign Office said it found nothing essentially new in the note. The U.S. government Friday made spies and saboteurs by air into the city.

"No quadripartite decisions on uncontrolled commercial air transport over the air corridors, or on transport over them of any German personnel, or persons not in the service of the occupation authorities of the three powers—not to speak of West German re-ventchists and militarists—have been taken by the control council and no such decisions exist in nature," the new Soviet notes declared.

3 Draw Fines After Minor Collisions

Three motorists drew fines in the mayor's court after their autos were involved in minor traffic accidents in Salem over the weekend.

When John W. Burnett, 53, of Indianapolis, hit the rear of a car operated by Harry D. Stout, 62, of 625 E. 6th St. Saturday at 6:20 p.m. at State and Union, both drivers were cited.

Burnett was fined $15 and costs for failure to stop in the assured clear distance and Stout $15 and costs for having an expired operator's license.

Billy D. Snyder, 25, of Gromley Rd., RD 3, Salem, was fined $10 and costs for failure to stop in the assured clear distance after his auto ran into Frank Mozinga, Jr., 32, of Pine Lake Rd., RD 1, Salem, when Mozinga was stopped for a traffic signal at Pershing and S. Lundy Ave. at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

No one was hurt when a car driven by Hugh Snipe, 27, of Cleveland, rammed the rear of a car operated by Clara Moyer, 30, of 558 N. Lincoln on N. Lincoln near 11th St. Saturday at 6:21 p.m. The Moyer car was shoved into another car driven by Carl Hiltbrand, 69, of 663 Fair Ave.

Realty Views
"We need your advice," said a young professional man. "When we first came to Salem we rented a nice 2-bedroom home with an option to buy. Now our lease is up and we have a decision to make."

In the shower of questions which followed I learned that the young professional man used the second bedroom as a study. But, the couple was "expecting an extra mouth" in a few months. This event would eventually require a bedroom too.

"We like the house," the young lady said, "and the district. But probably we'd be smart to hold out for a 3-bedroom home instead, don't you think?"

"Yes," I replied. "The reason you like the house now is because it is adequate. But with a family, it soon won't be. I think a 3-bedroom home is the right decision for you."

Luckily, we had an attractive 3-bedroom home available in the district they preferred. I showed it to them — and then pointed out how easily it could be bought under the NEW, liberal, F.H.A. financing.

They were surprised at the small down payment. "With my income, I shouldn't have any trouble with the monthly payments either," he added.

Come in and discuss your "home" problems with us. We'd be glad to help you solve it!

Columbiana to Begin Street Fair Wednesday

COLUMBIANA — The 75th annual Columbiana Street Fair is scheduled for four days this year.

Action will begin Tuesday on the three-block midway when the big tent will be set up. The Gooding Amusement Co. is expected to have rides set up by Wednesday when the diamond jubilee fair officially begins.

The Army display of the latest weapons in the merchants' tent at the south of the midway.

A display by the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. will be in a special tent on Pittsburgh St. It will feature films of research work on tires which is taking place here in Columbiana on nearby Firestone Farms.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will have a "Telemobile," an activated exhibit showing how satellites circle the earth.

The pumpkin show, offering $100 in prizes, will be located in the vacant lot next to Isaly's.

The oldest person who registers, either a former resident or present resident, is going to win a prize. A prize will be given to the person traveling the greatest distance for the homecoming. Another award has been offered by Theron's Store for the largest family that registers.

Harry Hundgren is fair secretary.

MIRIAM CIRCLE of the Presbyterian Church will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Donna Johnson.

Miriam Hutson will have devotions and the program, "Bible Study of the Book of John" will be by Randall Justice. Hostesses are Helen Barrow and Mrs. Johnson.

Over 100 attended the Lehman family reunion at the North Lima park.

New officers were elected: Joe Burkholder of Leetonia, president; William Howell of Columbiana, vice president; Mary Kathryn Huebert of North Lima, secretary; and Adin Miller of Columbiana, treasurer.

A LOT TO LUG(GAGE) — Entire pile of colorfully printed luggage at dockside in New York, above, belongs to one person—actress Elizabeth Taylor. It's being shipped to the Taylor family, now in Europe.

ANNOUNCING A FUR REMODELING EVENT

One Day
Only
Wednesday,
Sept. 6

Mr. Dale Hall, an expert in the remodeling of furs, will be in our store to advise you how your old fur can be made into a smart, new-looking garment. Come in and talk to Mr. Hall, Wednesday, September 6th.

Do You Have a Fur Problem?

Is your fur too good to discard, but too dated for you to enjoy wearing? Bring in your fur for Mr. Hall's inspection. He can tell you at once how it can be made to look its best at the lowest cost. You can choose from the latest styles in stoles, jackets, and coats.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

Don't Shrug Off Childhood Ailments

Protective immunizations are important factors in keeping the well child well. When these immunizations are done on a compulsory basis, as in the cases of smallpox, whooping cough, lockjaw and diphtheria, there is little the parents are required to do other than give their consent.

But in the case of optional immunizations, the initiative must often be taken by alert and informed parents in cooperation with their alert and informed physician. An excellent but confusing example of this general principle is afforded in the case of measles (rubella).

Permitted to run its own course, it may make the child miserable for two to three weeks. At the height of the discomfort, the temperature may rise above 103 degrees F.

It is almost always accompanied by infection of the bronchial tubes if not the lungs themselves. And it sometimes affects the brain in the same manner as an attack of sleeping sickness (encephalitis).

In fact, a recent article reports an alarmingly large series of such instances in an epidemic that occurred in an institution that housed children.

Happily the day has passed when parents are compelled to accept measles as another of the unavoidable incidents in the difficult process of "growing up." No longer need the conscientious mother, like her grandmother, consider exposing her whole flock when the first of her children shows signs of the infection so as to rid the household of the measles problem at one big party.

No longer need she accept the infection as another of the facts of life, like an electric storm.

But the choices she must make with the help of her physician are somewhat confusing. I'll try to make these clear to you in the next of these columns.
